Notice of Establishment of Long-Term Vision and New Medium-Term Business Plan

We hereby announce that the Sumitomo Warehouse Group has established a long-term vision looking 10 years down the road to 2030 and a new medium-term business plan covering the fiscal years from 2020 to 2022.

In 2019, the Sumitomo Warehouse Group celebrated the 120th anniversary of our founding. Under the slogan “Moving Forward to 2030,” we have set forth a long-term vision for continuing to contribute as a member of society through our business for the next 100 years as well, defining the mission of Sumitomo Warehouse with respect to our customers and society.

At the same time, we have established more specific business strategies, positioning the next three years, which are the focus of the new medium-term business plan, as a period of strengthening the business foundation in order to realize the long-term vision.

1. Background behind establishment of long-term vision and new medium-term business plan

Under the three-year medium-term business plan covering the fiscal years from 2017 to 2019, the Group promoted performance targets of 12 billion yen in consolidated operating income, a consolidated payout ratio of 35% for shareholder return, and acquisition of 5 million treasury shares*.

As a result, although fiscal year 2019 consolidated operating income fell short of the target at 11.1 billion yen, we recorded our highest profits in four years. Shareholder return was higher than initially planned. Furthermore, from a long-term strategy, we worked on rebuilding domestic warehouse facilities, built and acquired new warehouses in Tokyo, Yokohama, and other locations in Japan, and completed construction of new warehouses in Thailand and Singapore. Operations are going well at each of these.

Looking at the environment surrounding the Group, the future is exceedingly uncertain, including how the global spread of the novel coronavirus will affect the economies of Japan and other countries. Meanwhile, the various trends of recent years, such as rising costs fueled by labor shortages, expansion of digital transformation initiatives, and heightened awareness of ESG, are likely to continue.

Based on these circumstances, we established a long-term vision looking ahead to 2030, which is also the target year for SDGs, along with a new three-year medium-term business plan, our fourth such plan, as the first step of that vision in order to contribute to society through our business while achieving sustainable growth regardless of how the business environment changes in the future.

2. Long-term vision “Moving Forward to 2030”

(1) Corporate Philosophy of the Sumitomo Warehouse Group

“We will provide earnest and timeless support for logistics functions as the social infrastructure, which is needed by all, while also working to create new services sought after by our customers and society.”

(2) Mission of the Sumitomo Warehouse Group

Based on our corporate philosophy, we have defined four missions to accomplish over the next 10 years until 2030 to properly address the various risks that are multiplying with the progression of globalization and steadily provide the logistics services that are essential for society to our diverse stakeholders.

a. Connecting things

We will provide even more reliable logistics services around warehouses and ports, which are nodes of distribution. At the same time, we will coordinate more closely with industries outside of logistics, actively introducing and utilizing digital and other technologies to create new value in logistics while swiftly addressing various changes.

b. Connecting the world

We will support our customers in building solid, stable global supply chains, working to further expand our international logistics network, primarily in the four regions of Japan, Asia, Europe, and the United States.
